Overview

Escape to tranquility in this picturesque off-grid cabin nestled at the base of a scenic hiking trail on Whiteface Mountain in Ossipee. This unique property offers a blend of rustic charm and modern sustainability, featuring a cozy cabin, a separate greenhouse or use as a dedicated art studio, all powered by solar panels with batteries and a reliable backup generator. Water is on site from an artesian well. The cabin provides a warm and inviting atmosphere with its handcrafted details, open floor plan, and large windows that frame the stunning natural surroundings. Step outside to find lush herb and wildflower gardens, where you can unwind and reconnect with nature. The property's greenhouse is perfect for cultivating your own fresh produce year-round, or take advantage of the space as an art studio which offers a serene space for creativity, bathed in natural light. Whether you're looking to embark on hiking adventures right from your doorstep, immerse yourself in gardening, or find inspiration in art, this off-grid retreat promises a lifestyle of peace, beauty, and self-sufficiency.
