Overview

Filled with original 1920's charm but anxiously awaiting some TLC and up-dates. This 1720SF Colonial Revival commands a corner lot on a private street situated on the quiet, neighborhood outskirts of Hudson's historic down-town. With a little sweat equity, this is a perfect opportunity for those wanting to be in Hudson. Entering under a covered front door portico you will find an alcove with built-in storage to the right. Step into the main living area and the Living Room is to the right with working gas fireplace and double windows at each end of the room for plenty of light. (Did we say this house is bright and light-filled throughout?) Beyond the Living Room is a 4-season sun room with a view of the serene neighborhood. French doors to the left of the entry lead to a formal light filled dining room. The Kitchen, in the heart of the house, provides a blank canvas to create an expansive and state of the art chefs kitchen with lots of room for storage and a dining table. A first floor powder room for convenience. Up the gracious stairway to the second floor finds 3 bedrooms, one very large primary with two closets, two other bedrooms flank the second floor bathroom. Full basement. A bonus unfinished walk-up attic provides plenty of room for storage or expansion for additional living or work space. Original moldings, hardware, french doors and hardwood floors throughout. Nice older landscaping, corner lot and a two car garage with electric door. Sold As-Is. Convenient to Amtrak and to downtown Hudson's Warren street district for dinner and shopping.
