Overview

Welcome to 621 West Clark Street, a stunning Queen Anne style home nestled in a prime location near schools, the picturesque Westside Park, and the vibrant heart of downtown Champaign. Built in 1873 for the esteemed Lloyd family, this architectural gem was recognized on the Heitzman list of architecturally significant properties in 1980. Step onto the inviting wraparound porch and enter a home that exudes historical charm and elegance. Inside, you'll find meticulously preserved master-designed woodwork, a captivating cypress ceiling in the parlor, and beautiful stained-glass windows. The foyer, library, and music room all feature original trim, while the parlor boasts pocket doors and one of four fireplaces that add warmth and character throughout the home. The acoustically designed layout includes a spacious third-floor open plan, ideal for various uses. Modern updates blend seamlessly with historic features, including a newer roof, windows, an attached garage, and a privacy fence. Originally home to the Lloyd family's renowned music and bookstore, this residence is a significant part of local heritage in Champaign, Urbana, and the surrounding areas. Whether you envision it as a charming bed and breakfast or a spacious family home, 621 West Clark Street offers a unique opportunity to own a piece of history with unparalleled character and charm.
