Overview

Offered for sale for the first time in decades is this 43.44+/- acre property. Right off the road is a small, 6+/- acre hay field with a backdrop of beautiful rolling, hardwood timber that offers exceptional opportunities for deer hunting, turkey hunting, morel mushroom hunting and a variety of recreational activities. This area has been known to produce quality whitetail deer! With a steady mix of rolling terrain, thick bedding cover, bottoms, ridge-tops, south-facing slopes and potential areas for habitat improvements such as additional cover and food plots, this property is primed to produce big bucks year in and year out. The land is not only picturesque but also functional for a variety of different uses and potential. With a field currently in hay production located at the western portion of the property, this versatile space could be transformed into a prime location for wildlife enhancements, such as cover or food plots, and even holds potential as a building site, to be turned into row crop production, or a pasture for livestock. This is a great offering providing land that caters to a variety of outdoor interests. Whether you're a hunter or someone looking for a location to build a home, this property provides a wealth of opportunities.
